

1993 Netherlands Christmas Stamps Bulletin 275 Pg.22-23.

In the April edition of The South Pacific Perfin Bulletin (pub. by the Perfin Club of New Zealand & Australia) there is a further note on this particular stamp issue. John Mathews illustrated the reverse of the whole sheet of 20 stamps, showing the full perfin pattern. Over the whole sheet of 20 stamps there are only the two

In the October 1994 Perfin Bulletin (US) the pattern was referred to as "snowflakes" in a random pattern. John thinks the two stamps together could form part of the Constellations Draco, Hercules, Ophiuchus and Scorpio which appear overhead in the Northern Hemisphere near midnight in December. He also thinks he might have an over-active imagination!!
